Frank Wade—Entrepreneur and Splendid Citizen

Guest Columnist

Lenny Tvedten, Director, Martin County Historical Society

In March of 1919, Fairmont and Martin County lost a man that was perhaps on a par with some of the most prolific entrepreneurs of that century. His name was Frank Wade, and he was perhaps best known for Fairmont Railway Motors, Inc. and Interlaken Park.

Frank E. Wade was born on March 6th, 1862, at Whitehall, Wisconsin. The Wade family was originally from England. He attended public schools in Wisconsin and rural schools in Martin County. He also attended the Curtis Business College in St. Paul. Much of his early life was spent on a Martin County homestead where he experienced the hard conditions that faced every pioneer settler to the region.

Mr. Wade's career spanned many years and included a number of endeavors. In 1881, at the age of 19, he became in-involved with G. W. Sherwood & Company, a firm that built bridges along the Mississippi River. He soon became superintendent of construction, having 370 men under him, and was placed in charge of bridge construction. He moved to Primghar, Iowa, in 1887, and operated the Herrick & Wade General Store and later moved to Sheldon, Iowa. Wade was also a general salesman for Fairbanks & Morse Company of Chicago. He assisted in perfecting the engines manufactured by that firm, and in 1899 led the company in sales of that engine.

Frank Wade made the substantial portion of his fortune in the mining district of the Black Hills of South Dakota. He entered the region in 1902 and was one of the owners of the Homestake Mining Company; he was also involved with the Globe Gold Mining Company from 1902 to 1904.

Mr. Wade returned to Fairmont in 1906 and took over the operation of the Water and Light Commission. That same year he established the Fairmont National Bank, and was named president. He then began to focus his attention on the Fairmont Machine Company, of which he also became president in 1909. The company manufactured the Fairmont gasoline engines, railway motor cars, and many other railway appliances. At that time, it supplied most of the railroads in the U.S. as well as many foreign markets. Wade's expertise and aggressive salesmanship was instrumental in making the company a leader in the industry. In 1913, the city of Duluth made an attractive offer to move the Fairmont Machine Company to that city; however, the decision was made to expand and remain in Fairmont. In 1915, the company changed its name to Fairmont Gas Engine and Railway Motor Car Company, and in 1919 its name was again changed to Fairmont Railway Motors, Inc.

In addition to his interests in the Fairmont Machine Company, Mr. Wade was president of the Fairmont Boat Company, a public enterprise for boating, fishing, and general outings. Other ventures included being president of the Southern Florida Land Company and vice president of the Tobacco Plantation Company, the largest sugar manufacturing plant in Mexico at that time.

Although a very successful businessman, he was also very civic minded and was a member of the Christian Science Church. Regarding politics, Wade was a republican and he was a member of the state central committee as well as being elected mayor of Fairmont in 1915. It was during his term as mayor that paving was accomplished, in spite of heavy opposition. He also served as volunteer game warden and proved fearless in upholding the somewhat neglected laws of game resources of the time. He found time to belong to many local and state organizations including the Chain of Lakes Lodge, the Odd Fellows, the Knights of Pythias, to name but a few.

In 1915, he purchased

Railway Motor Car Company then elected Harold Wade, son of Frank Wade, as president and general manager.

Frank Wade was undoubtedly one of the most influential and significant figures of his era locally and beyond the borders of Martin County. His accomplishments impacted Fairmont and Martin County in many positive ways. An entrepreneur, he was public spirited and he was also a visionary intent on improving his community. His efforts proved instrumental in enhancing the quality land located south of Fairmont and developed it into one of the finest resorts in the Midwest, known as Interlaken Park. Weekend crowds of 4,000 were common, and the 1920s Fourth of July celebrations often numbered in excess of 20,000. It peaked in popularity in the 1920s, and drew praise from as far away as New York and as close as neighboring Iowa.

Frank E. Wade passed away on March 3rd, 1919. The Directors of the Fairmont Gas Engine and of life in this area and the positive effects of his presence would be felt locally for many decades after his death. He was well loved and respected in Martin County and throughout the state of Minnesota. As quoted in an article reporting his death seems to clearly summarize his life: "The life of Frank Wade was a life of action."

To find out more about Frank Wade, or to become a member, visit the Pioneer Museum in Fairmont or its website at www.fairmont.org/mchs.

Region Nine wants your input

Region Nine is requesting the public input for the regional economic development survey. Feedback from this survey will assist in creating an economic development roadmap for the region. This roadmap, also known as a Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy, will help mitigate threats, overcome weaknesses and capitalize on strengths to create a more viable and prosperous region.

Hy-Vee commits to plant 100,000 trees

Hy-Vee, Inc. is taking a big step in its efforts to help the environment. The supermarket chain announced it will fund the planting of 100,000 trees within the Midwest by the end of this fall through the Hy-Vee One Step program, which offers customers a selection of everyday products whose proceeds are donated to relevant, worthy causes.

"We pledge that we will plant 100,000 trees this year, and each year over the next several years in communities within our eight-state region," said Tara Deering-Hansen, Hy-Vee's group vice president of communications. "To help us reach this ambitious goal, we are expanding our line of One Step paper products and will again enlist NBA player and Olympic gold medalist Harrison Barnes to help us build awareness."

To ensure the donated dollars are put to the best use, Hy-Vee has teamed up with the Arbor Day Foundation and will rely on the nonprofit organization's experts to identify areas across the Midwest that are most in need of trees.

Since its launch in 2012, the Hy-Vee One Step program has been educating customers on how their simple, daily buying decisions can impact change in their communities. A portion of proceeds from One Step bottled water, paper towels, shredded wheat cereal and russet potatoes have funded:

- More than 580 community gardens
- More than 305,000 meals through Meals from the Heartland
- Nearly 20 clean drinking wells
- More than 14,000 trees (This number will now be more than 114,000 trees by the end of fall.)

"We believe it only takes one simple action to make a difference in someone's life. And the Hy-Vee One Step program would not be what it is today without the support of our customers," Deering-Hansen said. "With their help, we know we can do more in our communities and fulfill this new commitment to plant 100,000 trees."

My neighbor Crandall stops by

By Al Batt

"How are you doing?" I ask. "Everything is nearly copacetic. Each harvest season, I'm reminded how well rocks grow here. That's OK. The rocks don't need to be fed, they don't get out on to the road and they make good soup. Pop told me about a 10-pound bass he'd caught after fighting it for three hours. I'd seen a photo of that fish. I told him that I doubted that bass weighed over a pound." "What did your father say about that?" I say. "He reckoned that a fish loses a lot of weight during three hours of fighting. The other day, Pop parked downtown and went into the bank to have them count his money--again. When he came back to his truck, he discovered it was out of gas. He grabbed a gas can and trugged a few blocks to Fuel's Paradise and bought gas. He lugged it back and poured the gas into the tank. Then he noticed that he'd filled the gas tank of an identical truck to his. He walked back to the station to get more gas. The clerk said, 'Instead of walking back and forth to fill the tank, you should put a couple of gallons in it and drive your truck here.'"

Nature by the yard

I ate a Honeycrisp as I did some chores. The Honeycrisp is Minnesota's state apple, appointed to that office in 2006. For years, the University of Minnesota said that the Honeycrisp was a cross between a Macoun and a Honeygold. DNA testing has found that it's actually a cross between a Keepsake and an unknown apple. No matter. It still tastes great.

A peek into the shed showed that house sparrows were living happily every rafter. They chirped cheerfully. House sparrows always sound so happy.

I didn't see a dark-eyed junco. Growing up, I heard that a snowbird's appearance indicated four or six weeks to the first trackable snow. That's depending upon the teller. In 2013 it snowed 28 days after a junco arrived here. In 2014 it was 31 days and it was 44 days in 2015.

Corn was being harvested. An ear of corn will typically have an even number of rows, averaging 14 to 18. A bushel of corn weighs about 56 pounds and contains approximately 90,000 kernels, some of which spill on the road while being hauled and feed the wild animals.

There was a robust population of minute pirate bugs, more commonly called no-see-ums, nearly invisible insects that bite with a punch far above their weight class.

I love fall, but it usually leaves me feeling cheated as it leaves so soon.

The great pumpkin rises

A friend made a bird feeder out of a pumpkin. He cut a small pumpkin in half and scooped out the soft insides leaving a shell about a half-inch thick. He provided perches by making small holes in the shell of the gourd and inserting a dowel through them. He hung the pumpkin via a wire attached to the dowel. He put some peanut butter on a pinecone inside the pumpkin to make it more enticing.

What will be the national bird of Canada?

The Royal Canadian Geographical Society has come up with five finalists--common loon, snowy owl, gray jay, Canada goose and black-capped chickadee. The Society will present its recommendation for Canada's National Bird in the December 2016 issue of Canadian Geographic.

Q-and-A

Harvey Benson of Harmony asked what could be digging into mole tunnels. I've seen digging around mole tunnels. It was the work of skunks and raccoons looking for grubs and earthworms. Moles are there for the same reason. Moles (M for meat) feed on grub worms and earthworms. They aren't to be confused with voles (V for vegetarian) that eat plant material. Not all predators are able to dig, but foxes, raccoons, skunks, coyotes, weasels, badgers, cats, dogs, hawks and owls will get after moles. I'd think it would take a lot of gravity to make a mole palatable.

Grace Schrunk wrote that she was amazed at a hummingbird's memory. She put a feeder out several years ago and the hummingbirds return year after year to feed at it. She asked about their ability to recollect. An elephant is the animal portrayed to have a prodigious memory and it would take many hummingbirds to make one elephant, but a combination of field and laboratory research has found that a hummingbird remembers the nectar quality and content of individual flowers, nectar-refilling rates of flowers, the location of every flower in its territory and where the feeders are, both in territory and on migration routes. The hippocampus of a hummingbird -- the area of the brain responsible for learning and memory -- is as much as five times larger than those in songbirds, seabirds and woodpeckers.

"I see little insects in my bathroom that look to be a cross between a moth and a stealth bomber. What are they?" Drain flies (also known as moth flies or bathroom flies) appear suddenly and mysteriously around showers, bathtubs, sinks and floor drains, especially in basements. They are tiny (1/5 to 1/6 inch long), dark insects with long antennae, fuzzy bodies and wings. The wings are held out to the side, which gives them a moth-like appearance-- hence the name "moth fly." They are weak fliers and make irregular, hesitant and short flights.

The local harvest is progressing along nicely, even with the rainfall we have received lately. I have been watching the corn and soybeans that are combined from my neighbors fields in the past week and even enjoy the smells of the harvested grain! I have been out of farming now for over 10 years, but I enjoy the fact that Karis and I still live on a rural acreage and we get to experience the two favorite farming times of the year for me - spring planting and fall harvest. I have been hearing some great reports from the fields in the way of yields, even with the drowned out spots that many farmers have. Just be aware that there are many large pieces of equipment on the roads now, so always be on the lookout for potential driving hazards.

Salute firefighters!

This week is fire prevention week throughout the country and the Photo Press has a special section in this week's paper recognizing Martin County's local fire department members. Many smaller fire departments are made up of volunteer firefighters. Sure, they are paid a small stipend for being a firefighter, but they give much more than they are paid for in order to protect our buildings and take care of us in times of emergency. Last week members of the Ceylon Fire Department received training and new equipment to aid in grain bin rescues. With the large amount of agriculture in this area, equipment like they received could save a life some day. Many fire departments receive countless hours of training for various situations and also to learn new firefighting techniques.

As part of fire awareness week, everyone is encouraged not only to change the batteries in your smoke detectors, but also to check the dates on the detectors themselves. If you have a smoke detector that is over 10 years old, it is time to replace it with a new one. The price you pay for a new smoke detector is far cheaper than the price you pay if your smoke detector fails to alert you if smoke or a fire is detected!

Cancer Survivor Stories
This month, the Photo Press is recognizing cancer awareness by featuring cancer survivor stories from local survivors. These stories are told in their own words and can be very powerful to those who read it, those who are fellow survivors and those who may be going through cancer treatments at this very time. This week we feature area resident Lorri Harris. Lorri has dealt not only with one cancer, but two and is a survivor of both bouts of cancer! She has a great story, so be sure and read it in this week's Photo Press.

Crafts, Harvest, and CyberSmarts!

Before I go this week, I have a few activities to highlight in the coming week. On Friday and Saturday, there will be a "Crafts of Joy" Produce and Craft Fair at 1846 - 190th Avenue, rural Fairmont. Hours are 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. Friday and 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. Saturday. On Sunday, October 16th Heritage Acres will have their annual Harvest Festival at the farmsite on the west edge of Fairmont. Hours are from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. with a church service, great food, demonstrations, antique car display, crop harvesting, kids games wagon rides and lots more! Market Square will also be a part of the festival and they have a lot of great vendors, displays, entertainment, historic wagon rides and much more. Then on Monday, October 17th, there will be a CyberSmart Seminar at Fairmont Area Schools Performing Arts Center. The student lyceums will be from 8:30 to 10:40 a.m., business sessions at 1:30 and 4 p.m. and a parent session at 6:00 p.m. For more info, go to www.fairmontchamber.org or call 507-235-5547.

Have a great week!

BEING A PART OF THE HUNDRED

Guest Columnist

Darwin Anthony, Business Owner, Artist, Writer

This essay is being written to explain my long-time involvement with the Peterson-Anthony Insurance Agency in honor of its 100th anniversary. I had been teaching for several years when my father-in-law, Alfred E. Peterson, asked me if I wanted to work in the Farmers State Bank of Trimont. It was a hard decision for I liked teaching. However, teaching was different at that time. There were no salary schedules, benefits, or tenure. It was truly a year-to-year thing. My wife and I were both teachers and she had to stop teaching in the middle of the school year when she became pregnant. That was the rule of that time. We found ourselves with one small salary, a new baby on the way, and the feeling of limited security.

I started working at the Farmers State Bank of Trimont on July 1st, 1960. The Alfred E. Peterson Agency was a small, personally-owned insurance agency located within the bank. It has always been an agency that separated bank business from insurance. One of my first lessons was that we live by the commitment of never making one business contingent on the other. I remember when Alfred asked me if I would like to help with the insurance. My start was typing up renewal directions to the companies on his small note pads that carried his name. Things were simple in those days.

Alfred E. Peterson had been an agent for the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee since 1934. It was when I researched the company when buying our personal life insurance that I learned the story of the Northwestern Mutual. I became a Northwestern Mutual agent in 1963. It was a wonderful decision for I really inherited the right to sell the very best. Ask anyone with the Northwestern contract!

Leslie W. Peterson, my brother-in-law, had been in the bank for several years. He was an excellent banker, but he didn't like insurance. This allowed each of us to grow in the area that we enjoyed the most. We worked together as a team and never had even a cross word in all the years we worked together. We bought the agency from Alfred and operated it as Peterson-Anthony Insurance. We decided that it would continue to carry his highly-regarded Peterson name. My love of serving people became my thrust in the insurance business. Helping select the right product for the person, church, or business was the key. This helped the agency expand by the referrals of clients. We had the opportunity to further expand our base when we bought the Redding Agency of Trimont in the mid 1960's. It had a long-time loyal employee, Shirley Melson, who was hired as our first full-time insurance agency employee. She was a great asset as she brought many years of insurance experience. She worked with us for many years as a consultant, advisor, and office manager.

Our son, John Anthony, started in the agency in 1992. I remember the good feeling that I had when he decided on an insurance agency career. He was ready as he had a St. Olaf College education, the business experience gained from working for the Minnesota Twins for several years and a good work ethic. I knew that he would continue what others had started. He married Connie Richards in 1992. She started with the agency in August of 1994. Connie brought her desire for excellence to the agency. She has gained experience in the insurance business and is a great asset. Most of us know about the good feeling comes when we see confidence and trust in others. Connie is such a case! John Anthony and Connie Anthony bought Leslie W. Peterson's share of the agency in 1992. I was then in a partnership with my son and daughter-in-law. We needed to expand our marketing area. An office of Peterson-Anthony Insurance was set up at 55 Downtown Plaza in Fairmont. It was a good decision as it allowed the Peterson-Anthony Insurance Agency to be a direct part of two communities instead of one. John and Connie have now obtained the remaining half of the insurance agency. This means that I am now working for them. My business journey has been something wonderful. BEING A PART OF THE HUNDRED years of service has been satisfying. It has allowed us to raise a family that we are proud of, serve people in a meaningful way, and watch what Alfred built, continue to function with purpose.

LORRI HARRIS

MY STORY

My name is Lorri Harris and I am the oldest of three girls, born to Grant & Karen Jarrett. I was raised in Annandale, Minnesota. I received my LPN degree in 1995 at St. Cloud Technical College.

I moved to the Fairmont area in 1998. I worked at Fairmont Mayo Hospital in Fairmont, Lutz Wing, and the Fairmont Mayo Clinic; (Mayo Health System 1998 till 2011). My husband, Tim Harris is deceased. I am a single mom of two awesome children, 19-year-old Johnathon and 13-year-old Shelby Harris. They keep me fighting.

In May of 2014, my son Johnathon had his first seizure; during which time I was diagnosed with breast cancer. He has been seizure free now for 1 1/2 years.

My story starts way back around the end of 2010. I was not feeling good and had been seen by the doctor a few times. The tests came back within normal limits nothing indicating a concern.

During the winter/spring time I wasn't feeling good, but it was easily thought to be the flu or stomach bug. I continued with my usual activities for the next six months pushing myself through the bad days.

Then in April 2011 it was the beginning of multiple doctor appointments and multiple tests with no answers. Then the Dr. ordered a colonoscopy, which was considered a last option due to my age.

The last 10 months had come and gone with little to no answers, then I had the colonoscopy done on the 11th of July. Normally a colonoscopy is not done until you are 50. I am grateful that my doctor ordered it. The results came back on the 14th and they scheduled me for surgery on the 27th.

The days went by quickly when we knew what was wrong - I had colon cancer. The type of Colon Cancer I had was fast growing; my doctor had said if I waited another six months to do the colonoscopy, I would not have had a chance to survive. Fortunately, we caught it early enough and surgery was all I needed, no chemo or radiation.

Because of the colon cancer I have CTs done yearly. In August of 2014 during my CT, they found a small lump. The following week I had the biopsy done, with surgery to follow for breast cancer.

bell on my last day of radiation.

One of the main things I stress to my family and friends is early detection. If I had not pushed to find out why I did not feel good, I would not be here.

At this time I am cancer free five years for colon cancer and two years for breast cancer. During these difficult times my family and friends were there to support us. A benefit for my son and I was put together by family and friends and we had lots of support from area business, churches, former co-workers, family & friends. Words cannot express how thankful and grateful I am for all the support over these years.

The Story of Sparky the Fire Dog

A long time ago, a little Dalmatian puppy sat outside the fence at the school. The puppy loved watching the children play. He wanted to play with the children, but he was very shy.

One day, the puppy followed two children home from school. He curled up under a tree in the front yard to take a nap.

Suddenly Sparky wakes up from his nap. When he looked up, he saw that the children's house was on fire. The puppy knew he needed to get help. He ran down the street to the fire station, barking all the way.

The puppy saw the firefighters jump on their trucks and leave. He tried to run behind them, but his little legs could not keep up. When he got back to the house, he looked all around for the children but could not see them. He was very worried.

After the fire was out, the firefighters noticed the sad-looking puppy shivering under a tree.

"Look, it's the little puppy we saw at the station."

Firefighter Janet scooped up the puppy in her arms "Hey, little guy, where do you live?"

"I know," said Firefighter Janet, "let's take him to see the family. I'll bet he could cheer up the kids," said the firefighter. She knocked on the door. The puppy could barely believe his eyes!

The children were safe! They hugged the puppy and he wagged his tail.

"Do you know who this puppy belongs to?" asked the firefighter. "He's a real hero, he ran all the way to the fire station to let us know there was a fire at your house."

"I guess that makes him a fire dog. Maybe we should call him Sparky. Sparky the Fire Dog, said the firefighter." Sparky found a new home at the fire station.

Sparky was very proud of his new name and loved his new home at the fire station. He worked hard to teach children and their families everywhere how to stop fires from happening.

Ceylon Fire Department receives aid in grain bin rescues

Members of the Ceylon Fire Department last week received training with a new piece of equipment to aid in grain bin rescues.

The fire department found out recently that they had won the Nationwide Insurance "Nominate Your Fire Department" contest. Their "prize" was a brand new grain rescue tube and also hands-on rescue training on how to use the equipment to aid in lifesaving situations. The total value of the equipment and training was about $8,000.

The Ceylon Fire Department was one of 19 winners chosen from a nationwide contest. The addition of the grain bin rescue equipment by Ceylon joins the Sherburn, Fairmont and Truman departments in having this type of life-saving equipment at their disposal.

Last Tuesday, October 4th the Ceylon firefighters were trained on the new equipment and how to use it. They also invited the Sherburn Fire Department to join them in their training that evening.

The National Education Center for Agricultural Safety sponsors the Grain Bin Safety week, which is recognized each year in September, and they also provide safety training to fire departments and others who deal with situations involving ag injuries and equipment. Ceylon Firefighter Ellen Kling nominated the Ceylon Fire Department earlier this year and her nomination was one of the 19 chosen for this year's awards.

As part of the training, a Ceylon firefighter took the part of an entrapped victim from the corn in the grain bin and other firefighters used the grain tube walls as barriers to surround and keep the victim from sinking any deeper into the grain. Corn and soybeans create great pressure on a persons body, especially during a "cave-in" and it becomes difficult or even impossible for the victim to climb out of the grain, many times sinking deeper into the grain. The grain tube gives the victim a better chance of getting out alive and keeps rescuers from getting trapped themselves.

The National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health statistics show that the fatality rate for farmers and farm workers are 20 deaths per 100,000. Compare that to the rate for transportation workers (which is 14 per 100,000) and mining (12 per 100,000) and that puts farm workers at a high risk level.

The good news in this is that farm injuries and fatalities are almost always preventable if you take a few basic safety steps:

- Wear a mask when entering a grain bin
- let someone know before you enter a grain bin
- never enter a bin whenever there is an au-

ger running inside

• label and number your bins so it makes it easy for rescuers to locate which bin an incident has occurred in.

Trainers and members of the Ceylon Fire Department both have stated that they hope they never have to use the grain bin rescue tubes, but it is good that Ceylon Fire Department (along with the other three Martin County Fire Departments) have the equipment to respond, should the need arise.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

I have had the pleasure of knowing Deb Foster for nearly 20 years. In that time I have learned through personal experience with Deb that she is an active model of integrity. She displays character, positivity, and compassion in all aspects of her life.

One personal experience I had with Deb that speaks to her character happened the day before my wedding. My mother and mother-in-law both unexpectedly became ill. This put me in a precarious position. As part of tradition, I didn't want to stay the night with my soon-to-be-husband and also feared becoming ill if I stayed with my mother or mother-in-law. So Deb happily came to the rescue, enthusiastically opening her home to my maid of honor and me. This is just one tiny example of the many ways that Deb has touched the lives of countless people in our community.

Not only is Deb willing to open her home when in a time of need, she is also ready to be there for any situation that is at hand. I know this as Deb has met and overcome great personal challenges that additionally speak to her perseverant nature including the loss of two children and her spouse. She answered these challenges by looking to her faith, family, and friends and taking it one day at a time, never once losing the will to move forward. Her life experiences have also allowed her to develop perspectives which value open-mindedness, honesty, and a true interest in listening to others that drive her to actively seek out and value opinions, outlooks, and concerns from multiple perspectives.

When asking Deb what she wants to do for Fairmont as mayor, she smiled and said that her main goal as mayor would be to hear out and consider the opinions and ideas of all community members in order to encourage valuable discussions that help move our community forward in a way that values all people. In doing so, she will promote collaborative decision-making based on the benefits of encouraging multiple perspectives to come up with one great outcome. With experience gained through community and public services including, but not limited to, over 10 years of school board membership including leadership positions therein and local church involvement, Deb is further equipped to take on the position of mayor. Her flexible schedule affords her all of the time needed to devote to the tasks needed to successfully execute this position.

Serving as mayor has been a dream of Deb's for many years. Her husband Mike always told her that the time would be right, and the time is now. This November 8th as you enter the Knight's of Columbus polling station, I urge you to consider casting your vote for Deb Foster.

Diana Johnson
Fairmont

My name is Debbie Foster and I have filed as a candidate for the Mayor of Fairmont. I would be honored to receive your vote and to serve you as Fairmont's next mayor.

I am often asked what I would like to see changed in Fairmont. My answer to that question is improving communication from the City Administrator and the Management team as well as elected City Council officials and Mayor with ALL community members.

My leadership experience as an elected official for 11 years has taught me, the most effective forms of communication from a local government entity with community members needs to be consistent, transparent, open and truthful. There are numerous ways to communicate with community members: the traditional US mail service, email, text messaging, City of Fairmont website, Twitter, Facebook, articles in the Fairmont Photo Press and Sentinel, and hosting open forum meetings.

A recent example of the lack of effective communication with community members is the latest city water quality issue. While I realize this can be a subjective issue, a majority of community members, including myself, expressed the most recent odor and taste of the water as "nasty". I have been paying close attention for acknowledgement of the issue, an explanation of the issue and what, if anything, is being done to correct the issue.

Troy Nemmers, Public Works Director/City Engineer, did give a brief update to the water quality issue during the City Council meeting on Sept. 12th. During a recent conversation with Mike Humpal, City Administrator, he told me city staff did inform community members of this issue through Twitter, Facebook and the City of Fairmont website. It was good to hear there was some, very limited, acknowledgement of the issue. I will be committed to communicating with ALL community members, not just those with Internet access. The lack of communication with community members often leads to frustration.

The quality of our city water is a big concern for many community. A safe and clean water supply is an expectation of our community members.

I DO drink Fairmont water with no additional treatment system. I DO believe Fairmont water is safe and is clean. I DO believe, with Troy Nemmers' leadership, and the dedicated employees at the water plant, a solution to the "nasty" smell and taste is being addressed. We need to share with the community all that is being done to correct the issue.

In the next two weeks, with help from family & friends, I will accomplish my goal to deliver a "Vote Foster for Mayor" door hanger to every home in the City of Fairmont. I have really enjoyed this experience as I have been able to see so many familiar faces and so meet many new faces. Again, it would be an honor to be elected to serve as Fairmont's next mayor. I humbly ask for your vote on November 8th.

Rosie M. Dishong, 87

Services for Rosie M. Dishong, 87, of Fairmont, were held Wednesday, October 12th, 2016, at Immanuel Lutheran Church in Fairmont. Burial was in Lakeside Cemetery in Fairmont. Rosie passed away Friday evening, October 7th, 2016, at St. Mary's Hospital in Rochester. Lakeview Funeral Home and Cremation Service of Fairmont assisted the family with arrangements.

Rose Marie (Pierce) Dishong was born January 19th, 1929, in Jackson, the daughter of David H. and Alpha (Bayliss) Pierce. She attended school in Hanlontown, Iowa, graduating from Hanlontown High School. Following her graduation, Rosie worked for the Fairmont Community Hospital as dietitian. She later went on to take bookkeeping courses in Lacrosse, Wisconsin.

On April 14, 1956, Rosie was united in marriage to George William Dishong at the Lutheran Church in Northwood, Iowa. Together the couple made their home in Truman, where Rosie babysat Parochial school children for a number of years. They then moved to Fairmont in 1960 where she and George

She served her church in many various roles from finance secretary for parish and fellowship committee to greeter. Rosie was also an active member of the Rachel Circle and a life member of the Fairmont Community Hospital Auxiliary. In her spare time, Rosie enjoyed sewing, crocheting and ceramics. Elderberry Berries

An elderberry bush grows on the other side of my fence. Right now it's full of berries, so I know the season is changing. And with summer turning to fall that means fall migration will be underway, bringing one of my favorite birds, the gray catbird. Catbirds love elderberries.

Harvest Season Progressing in Many Areas

Guest Columnist

Kent Thiesse, Farm Management Analyst; VP, MinnStar Bank

Phone: (507) 381-7960 • E-mail: kent.thiesse@minnstarbank.com

Above normal temperatures during the month of September in the upper Midwest allowed most the 2016 corn and soybean crop to either reach maturity, or be very close to maturity, by month's end. Most of the corn hybrids that were planted in late April and the first half of May have now reached physiological maturity and are drying down in the field, while some later planted corn may need a bit more time for field dry-down. Most soybeans are ready to harvest, with full-scale soybean harvest proceeding across the region, as weather and field conditions permit.

Most farm operators took advantage of some very favorable weather during the last week of September and first few days of October to harvest soybeans, and in some cases to begin harvesting corn. Harvest progress across the region varied considerably, depending on the amount of rainfall received during September, and the level of soil saturation that existed in given locations. Generally, soybean harvest progress was more advanced in West Central and Southwest Minnesota, as compared to the South Central and Southeastern portions of the State. At the University of Minnesota Research and Outreach Center at Waseca, no precipitation was recorded for eight straight days from September 27th through October 4th, which was the longest period with no precipitation during the 2016 growing season.

Two rainfall events from October 4th-7th greatly slowed harvest progress in many areas of Southern Minnesota and Northern Iowa. Rainfall amounts in many portions of the region totaled 1-2 inches, which was particularly harmful in some of the extremely wet areas of South Central and Southeast Minnesota, along with adjoining areas of Eastern Iowa and Western Wisconsin. Some farms in that region have yet to dry out adequately, following the heavy rainfall event on September 21st and 22nd, for either soybean or corn harvest to begin.

As of October 5th, the U of M Ag Research Center at Waseca had accumulated a total 2,919 growing degree units, which only the third time since 1950 that the GDU's during the growing season at Waseca have topped 2,900 GDU's. The 2016 GDU's reported at Waseca are more than 17 percent above the GDU accumulation for a normal growing season. The higher than normal GDU accumulation in 2016, especially later in the growing season, has greatly enhanced the maturity process for the 2016 corn and soybean crop, even on the later planted crops in the region.

The early yield reports from the soybean harvest across Southern Minnesota and Northern Iowa have been surprisingly good, especially considering some of the weather challenges during the 2016 growing season. Many yield monitor, weigh-wagon, and test plot soybean yields of 60-70 bushels per acre, or even higher, have been reported across the region, with soybean yields of 50-60 bushels per acre being quite common. Of course, it should be pointed out that "whole field" yields are determined by dividing total bushels harvested by the total acres in a field that were planted last Spring.

There are many farms or fields with significant drowned out areas, or portions of fields that are not harvestable. The crop acres that are not harvestable need to be factored in to the final "whole field" yield calculations. In some cases this will significantly lower the final "whole field" yields. For example, a soybean field with a weigh wagon yield of 60 bushels per acre, measured in an area with no drown-out damage, would see the "whole field" yield reduced to 48 bushels per acre, if 20 percent of the field is not harvestable. There will be numerous soybean fields across the region that will have 10-20 percent, or more, of the total acres that are not harvestable this year. Most experts expect a wide variation in final soybean yields, once harvest is completed.

Corn harvest has also been initiated in many areas of Western Minnesota, now that corn has reached maturity and is drying down in the field. Once corn reaches physiological maturity, or "black-layer", the corn begins to dry down naturally in the field. On very warm days, such as occurred in late September and the first few days of October, corn will naturally dry down by nearly one percent moisture per day in the field. Field dry-down rates of one third to one half percent per day are more typical for corn during the first half of October, with normal temperatures.

One piece of good news for farm operators is that the above normal temperatures in the early Fall has allowed most corn to dry down naturally in the field to 16-23 percent moisture, with the drying process continuing to occur. This will greatly reduce corn drying costs in 2016, which will be a big plus in a year with very tight profit margins. Ideally, corn needs to be dried down to about 15-16 percent moisture, either naturally in the field, or with supplemental drying, for safe storage in on-farm grain bins until next Spring or Summer.

Stalk quality and strength has been a major concern with the 2016

corn crop in many areas of the Upper Midwest, with significant stalk breakage and ear droppage already occurring in some fields. A higher than normal incidence of corn diseases late in the growing season, together with the rapid maturity process for corn, has likely lead to weakening of corn stalks in some corn hybrids. The consistent standing water in some areas in recent weeks is likely to result in weaker stalks, as well as more development of stalk rots, which can also result in additional corn lodging.

Fall tillage and manure applications could also be a bit challenging in many areas this Fall, due the extremely saturated top soil conditions. This type of soil situation makes it difficult for quality tillage, and may require leaving portions of fields without Fall tillage or manure applications. Producers are also reminded that soil temperatures should be 50 degrees Fahrenheit or lower for Fall applications of anhydrous ammonia nitrogen fertilizer for the 2017 crop year, in order to avoid significant losses. Soil temperatures at Waseca were still above 60 degrees F, as recently as October 5th.

FHS Girls win I-90 meet, FHS boys take sixth

The Class A #1 ranked Cardinal Girls won the Fairmont I-90 Meet with Jenna Pavich, Iliana Ramon and Sarah Krumholz taking the top 3 spots. The Martin County West/Martin Luther girls finished 5th with Madelia/Truman/Granada-Huntley-East Chain girls finishing 12th.

The Martin County West/Martin Luther boys finished 3rd. The Cardinal Boys team captured 6th and Madelia/Truman/Granada-Huntley-East Chain boys were 13th. "The course was wet and there was some mud," said Card coach Bob Bonk. "With the rain just before the meet it didn't look like we'd get it in. With this many teams it's pretty amazing that we took the top three spots in the girls race."

Valero donates $30,000 to local organizations

The Valero Energy Foundation, the philanthropic arm of Valero Energy Corporation, presented checks totaling $30,000 to representatives of 6 area children’s charities, from funds raised by the 2016 Valero Texas Open and Benefit for Children. Valero Renewables-Welcome is one of 11 ethanol plants operated by Valero subsidiary Valero Renewable Fuels Company LLC, known as Valero Renewables.

The 2016 Valero Benefit for Children local recipients are:

- Fairmont Area Kinship
- Girl Scouts of Minnesota and Wisconsin River Valleys
- Heaven’s Table Food Shelf
- Martin County 4-H
- Martin County Youth for Christ
- STEP, Incorporated

Overall, and with the overwhelming support of Valero’s business partners and sponsors, the 2016 Valero Texas Open in April raised a record $10.5 million to be distributed to children’s charities throughout the United States where Valero has major operations. The event at TPC San Antonio and the JW Marriott San Antonio Hill Country Resort and Spa raised the most charity dollars of any tourney on the PGA TOUR this year.

“For agency representatives with us today, we want you to know how much we appreciate the work you do in our community to improve children’s lives,” said Nicole Gries, Plant Manager of Valero Renewables-Welcome. “All of us still face an uncertain economy, so it gives us even more joy to be able to support the children of our area once again.”

With this year’s result, Valero has raised more than $111 million since becoming title sponsor in 2002, and last year the tournament became one of only four PGA TOUR events to eclipse $100 million. As title sponsor, Valero was the fastest to reach that mark, in just 14 years. Agencies selected to receive Benefit for Children dollars each year are nominated and selected by Valero employees.

“Our process, from start to finish, is driven by our employees,” Gries said. “It reflects the respect they have for agencies making the most impact on children’s lives each year.”

“The slogan of our campaign this year was ‘Making Hope Happen in
